Grand total		60

Explanatory notes

Content: full marks are given if the question has been answered fully. The content mark will be reduced according to how much of the question has not been answered satisfactorily.

Grammar & Vocabulary: full marks are given if the range and accuracy of grammar and vocabulary is fully at the B2 level. Marks will be reduced according to the quantity, type and level of language error. Consequently, mistakes in language at a B2 level will incur fewer penalties than mistakes in more basic language structures.

Organisation: full marks are given if the writing is structured coherently (use of appropriate linking expressions and other discourse features) and demonstrates a clear overall organisation, including a clear introduction and subsequent paragraphs. Marks will be reduced for incoherent, inconsistent organisation, such as, but not exclusively, lack of clear paragraphing, lack of or inappropriate discourse features.

Specialised language: full marks will be awarded if appropriate specialised language is used accurately in the writing. Therefore, specialised language manes that covered in the course, including as an example but not exclusively, formal/informal requests, email language, opinions, descriptions and collocations. Further, students will have to demonstrate an awareness of register considerations, and full marks will be given if the register used is wholly appropriate to the task. Finally, in order to be awarded full marks in this category, students must demonstrate that they can produce an article and/or a email by adhering to the conventions of this genre of writing.

Overall: full marks are given if the reader receives a wholly positive impression of the text. A positive impression is based on how easy the text is to follow, how much of the question is answered, the accuracy and range of the language used, the originality of the writing (content and observations) and how far the writing is appropriate to the required text type.

Please be advised that spelling mistakes are evaluated in the "Grammar and Vocabulary" category and an excessive number of spelling mistakes will be penalised.

As stated in the Portfolio guidelines, any evidence of plagiarism will result in students failing the entire Portfolio for the exam session for which they have enrolled.

Students must have completed the Portfolio in order to be admitted to the oral exam.

2. Written exam

Part A

In Sections A, B, D and E, each question is worth one point. In Section C, each question is worth two points. If the answer is wrong or left blank, the score is 0. There are no half marks available.

Part B: article/email

content	5
grammar & vocabulary (at B2)	5
organisation (paragraphs, linking words)	5
specialised language & register	5
total	20

Explanatory notes

See notes for the Portfolio.

Students must achieve 60% in the written exam (Part A + Part B) to be admitted to the oral exam. Part A and Part B have equal weighting.

3. Oral exam

5-minute Presentation

The following areas will be evaluated with equal weighting for the presentation:

- content
- grammar & vocabulary (at B2)
- pronunciation
- discourse management (including appropriate introduction, body and conclusion and internal linking expressions)
- visual aids

Post-presentation discussion

The language used in the discussion in the Q&A session after the presentation will be evaluated based on the accuracy of the language used and the relevance of students' answers to the questions asked.

Important:

Visual aids

The presentation must be accompanied by visual aids. If there are no visual aids, students will not be allowed to do the oral exam and it will have to be repeated in another exam session.

If the visual aids are a PowerPoint presentation or similar, this must be accessed using some portable storage device/own laptop, etc. Students are not allowed to logon to their UniBZ account.
