List of topics covered	European Union institutions and their roles, sources of European Law and the enforcement of European Law by institutions, Member States and individuals. Moreover, students will get a deeper understanding of the complex interaction between the national legal order and EU law. Last but not least the course will also address a number of topical issues in EU law, such as the crisis facing Economic and Monetary Union
Teaching format	Frontal lectures with ample opportunity for discussion.

Learning outcomes	Knowledge and understanding: Students will learn about the European Union institutions and their roles, sources of European Law and the enforcement of European Law by institutions, Member States and individuals as well as about the rationale underpinning key policy areas. Moreover, they will thereby develop a deeper understanding of the complex interactions between the national legal order and EU law. This will also raise awareness for current problems faced by the EU. Applying knowledge and understanding: Students learn how to find, identify and use sources of relevant legal accounts in relation to EU law. Furthermore, they then learn how to interpret complex legal provisions. Last but not least, they learn how to apply their knowledge of European Union law to actual or hypothetical factual scenarios. Communication skills: Ability to articulate complex legal advice Making judgements Ability to assess a factual everyday life situation in legal terms. Ability to learn Ability to autonomously extend the knowledge acquired during the study course by reading and understanding complex legal norms/issues.

Assessment	Written: written exam with case studies to test knowledge application skills acquired during the course Knowledge and understanding: Whether students have developed a thorough knowledge and understanding of EU Law will be tested by way of so-called knowledge questions.
-------------------	--

	Applying knowledge and understanding: Whether students have learned how to find, identify and use sources of relevant legal accounts in relation to EU law will be tested by so-called problem questions/case studies. This will also show whether they have understood how to interpret complex legal provisions. Last but not least, it also exhibits their ability to apply their knowledge of European Union law to actual or hypothetical factual scenarios.
