

Federico Fabbrini is Full Professor of EU Law at Dublin City University in Ireland, and in the spring semester 2026 a Fulbright Schuman Fellow in International Security at the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard.

Federico holds a PhD from the European University Institute, and previously held academic appointments in the Netherlands, Denmark, France, Japan, Australia and the US – where he was a Fellow in Law & Public Policy at the School of Public & International Affairs at Princeton.

Federico is the Founding Director of the Brexit Institute & Dublin European Law Institute, and the author among others of 5 monographs with Oxford University Press, including “The EU Constitution in Time of War: Legal Responses to Russia’s Aggression against Ukraine” (2025).