

AMEDEO BONINI

My name is Amedeo, and I define myself as a professional curious, because I look into everything and get lost in the situations and details of my surroundings: so I ended up making it my job.

Design appeals to me because of its broad approach.

It combines a multitude of attitudes and skills to analyse situations, discern and distil a result.

Currently my work is focused on parametric design, closely combined with digital manufacturing, plus teaching and education. My personal projects revolve around auto-production of goods (DIY) and sustainable living. What I have to offer is an energetic and caring presence, eager to challenge the status of things. I love good stories and good reasons, and absolutely hate those “because yes” answer.

I learn fast, speak frankly and ask lots of questions.
